NOTE: This form is for issue by the court when a defendant convicted of a felony in a North Carolina state court is discharged unconditionally from unsupervised probation or otherwise completes the terms of a sentence for which no probation or imprisonment was imposed. For supervised probationers, parolees, and post-release supervisees discharged from supervision and inmates released from active sentences for North Carolina convictions, a certificate of restoration is issued by the supervising or custodial agency. For a person convicted in another state or federal court who presents written certification of his/her discharge and restoration of rights from an agency of the other state or of the United States, see form AOC-CR-919.

NOTE TO DEFENDANT

This Order restores some, but not all, of the rights forfeited as the result of your conviction in the case(s) listed above. This restoration applies only to rights forfeited as a result of the specific case(s) listed; it does not restore rights still forfeited as a result of other convictions.

If you have no other convictions for which your rights were forfeited, this Order does restore your rights to vote, to serve on a jury, and to run for or hold most (but not all) elected or appointed offices in the State. To vote, you must first register with your local board of elections. Information on registering to vote is available online at www.ncsbe.gov.

This Order does not:

- expunge, reverse, or conceal the record of conviction in the case listed above;
- restore the right to possess a firearm;
- restore a drivers license or other government-issued license that may have been revoked or suspended as a result of your conviction;
- remove other consequences of conviction, like registration as a sex offender or a court's finding of domestic violence offender status;
- satisfy outstanding civil obligations arising from the criminal case, like attorney fees, restitution, or forfeitures;
- prevent some licensing agencies or employers from considering your conviction in licensing or employment decisions; or
- restore other rights or privileges not specifically excluded here.

Any questions about the rights that are or are not restored by this Order should be directed to an attorney or to the government agency with authority over the right or benefit in question (e.g., the local board of elections). The clerk of superior court cannot give you legal advice about rights that are or are not restored by this Order.
