

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
COUNTY OF BUNCOMBE

IN THE GENERAL COURT OF JUSTICE
SUPERIOR COURT DIVISION
CIVIL ACTION NO.: 23 CVS 5013

JEFF JACKSON, Attorney General, ex
rel. DOGWOOD HEALTH TRUST,

Plaintiff,

v.

MH MASTER HOLDINGS, LLLP,

Defendant.

SECOND ORDER ON DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO COMPEL

1. THIS MATTER is before the Court on Defendant's Motion to Compel Production of Improperly Withheld or Redacted Public Records (Motion), (ECF No. 85).

2. Having considered the Motion, the related briefs, the arguments of counsel at a hearing held 12 December 2024, and the documents produced for in camera review, the Court concludes for the reasons below that the Motion should be GRANTED in part and DENIED in part.

A. Background

3. The factual and procedural history of the underlying case and Motion is recited in detail in the Court's Order on Defendant's Motion to Compel. See Jackson ex rel. Dogwood Health Trust v. MH Master Holdings, 2025 NCBC LEXIS 21, at 3–12 (N.C. Super. Ct. Feb. 8, 2025) (February Order), (ECF No. 120).

4. In short, the case centers on the terms of an Amended and Restated Asset Purchase Agreement (APA) between MH Master Holdings and Mission Health System (Mission Health) memorializing MH Master Holdings' acquisition of Mission Health, a six-campus hospital system serving western North Carolina. (Countercls. ¶ 49.)

5. During discovery, Defendant served a Rule 34 document request. In response, the Attorney General withheld documents that he identified in a privilege log as communications and documents: (a) providing, requesting, or discussing legal advice concerning review of the Mission-HCA transaction and/or negotiation of the APA; (b) providing, requesting, or discussing legal advice concerning HCA's compliance with the APA; or (c) providing, requesting, or discussing legal advice about communications with persons outside of NCDOJ concerning the Mission-HCA transaction. (Privilege Log, ECF No. 86.4.)

6. Defendant filed this Motion on 16 September 2024. The Court initially addressed the Motion in its February Order. In the February Order, the Court observed that records kept by the Attorney General's Office are subject to the Public Records Act, N.C.G.S. § 132-1 et. seq. and, because Plaintiff represented that the majority of the documents at issue were redacted or withheld on grounds of attorney work product, the Court analyzed Section 132-1.9, the Act's provision regarding work product. The Court references the analysis from its February Order again here.

7. Ultimately, the Court concluded that an in camera review of the withheld documents was required to discern whether they fell within the ambit of either Section 132-1.9 or other protection afforded by the Act.

8. Following the Court's 28 February 2025 Order, Plaintiff submitted more than 1,200 documents to the Court for in camera review. The Court has completed this review and issues this second order to further address Plaintiff's objections. Because the Court determines that some of the withheld documents contain protected attorney-client communications, it is necessary to address Section 132-1.1(a) of the Act before determining whether the documents at issue are protected from discovery under either Section 132-1.9 or Section 132-1.1(a).

B. Section 132-1.1(a) and Attorney-Client Communications

9. Plaintiff argues that both the common law attorney-client privilege, as well as a statutory privilege found in the Act, protect the withheld documents from public inspection. (Pl.'s Resp. Opp'n Def.'s Mot. Compel [Pl.'s Resp.] 3, 9–10, ECF No. 92.) Defendant responds that the common law privilege does not apply to public records, and the statutory exemption either does not apply or has expired. (Def.'s Br. Supp. Mot. Compel [Def.'s Br.] 1–2, 8–11, ECF No. 86.) The Court finds no case from our appellate courts that speaks directly to the issue and determines this matter as one of first impression.

10. Prior to a 2023 amendment, Section 132-1.1(a) of the North Carolina General Statutes limited the public's right to access certain records:

Public records, as defined in G.S. 132-1, shall not include written communications (and copies thereof) to any public board, council, commission or other governmental body of the State or of any county, municipality or other political subdivision or unit of government, made within the scope of the attorney-client relationship by any attorney-at-law serving any such governmental body, concerning any claim against or on behalf of the governmental body or the governmental entity for which such body acts, or concerning the prosecution, defense, settlement or litigation of any judicial action, or any administrative or other type of proceeding to which the governmental body is a party or by which it is or may be directly affected. Such written communication and copies thereof shall not be open to public inspection, examination or copying unless specifically made public by the governmental body receiving such written communications; provided, however, that such written communications and copies thereof shall become public records as defined in G.S. 132-1 three years from the date such communication was received by such public board, council, commission or other governmental body.

N.C.G.S. § 132-1.1(a) (effective 25 August 2014 to 2 October 2023).

11. By statute, then, written communications of a certain nature (a) from an attorney to a governmental body client, (b) that were made within the scope of the attorney-client relationship, and (c) that were received by the client within the previous three years were excepted from the definition of “public record” and therefore not subject to disclosure under the Act.

12. Effective 3 October 2023, however, the General Assembly amended the statute and eliminated the requirement that, to be excepted, the written communication had to be “by any attorney-at-law,” as well as the three-year limit.

As revised, the statute reads:

Public records, as defined in G.S. 132-1, shall not include written communications (and copies thereof) to any public board, council, commission or other governmental body of the State or of any county, municipality or other political subdivision or unit of government made within the scope of the attorney-client relationship concerning any claim against or on behalf of the governmental body or the governmental entity for which such body acts, or concerning the prosecution, defense, settlement or litigation of any judicial action, or any administrative or other type of proceeding to which the governmental body is a party or by which it is or may be directly affected. Such written communication and copies thereof shall not be open to public inspection, examination or copying unless specifically made public by the governmental body receiving such written communications.

N.C.G.S. § 132-1.1(a) (2024).

13. The statutory protection is narrower than the common law attorney-client privilege. See, e.g., McCormick v. Hanson Aggregates Se., Inc., 164 N.C. App. 459, 469 (2004) (“[T]he statutory protection for privileged information is more narrow than the traditional common law attorney-client privilege.”). The common law privilege protects communications if:

(1) the relation of attorney and client existed at the time the communication was made, (2) the communication was made in confidence, (3) the communication relates to a matter about which the attorney is being professionally consulted, (4) the communication was made in the course of giving or seeking legal advice for a proper purpose although litigation need not be contemplated and (5) the client has not waived the privilege.

State v. Murvin, 304 N.C. 523, 531 (1981). Consequently, determining which version of the privilege to apply bears heavily on the outcome.

14. Because our appellate courts have not recognized the common law privilege in this context, this Court declines to do so. See News and Observer Publ’g Co., Inc. v. Poole, 330 N.C. 465, 482–83 (1992) (“So far this Court has not recognized an attorney-client privilege for public entity clients In the context of what such [public] agencies must disclose pursuant to the Public Records Law, the statute itself defines the scope of the [attorney-client] privilege.”).

15. Applying the statutory protection is complicated by the fact that Defendant served its document requests after the statutory protection for privileged information was amended on 3 October 2023 but seeking documents that pre-existed that amendment. Plaintiff argues that the controlling date for purposes of determining which version of the statute to apply is the date on which the public records request (in the form of a Rule 34 document request) was made. (Pl.’s Resp, 5–7). Defendant argues that even if each of the communications at issue was exempt from the definition of “public record” at one time, it was only exempt for three years, and the 3 October 2023 amendment cannot be applied retroactively to restore that exemption. Once a public record, Defendant argues, always a public record. (Def.’s Br. 7, 14.).

16. As discussed above, effective 3 October 2023, the General Assembly amended the Public Records Act to eliminate the three-year limitation in Section 132-1.1(a). The Act now provides that any written communication to any governmental body of the State (or any county, municipality or other political subdivision or unit of government), made within the scope of the attorney-client relationship, is not a public record, regardless of its age. N.C.G.S. § 132-1.1(a). The parties disagree about whether this amendment could only protect the withheld documents if it were applied retroactively.

17. A retroactive law is one “which is made to affect acts or transactions occurring before it came into effect[.]” Ashley v. Brown, 198 N.C. 369, 372 (1930) (citation omitted). The general rule is that “a statute will be given retroactive application only when it clearly appears that to do so was the intent of the legislature.’” N.C. Elec. Membership Corp. v. N.C. Dep’t of Econ. & Cmty. Dev., 108 N.C. App. 711, 719 (1993) (quoting Perry v. Perry, 80 N.C. App. 169, 172 (1986)); see also N.C. ex rel. Expert Discovery, LLC, 287 N.C. App. 75, 89–90 (2022) (citing State v. Green, 350 N.C. 400, 404 (1999)). A statute only applies retroactively if that intent is “clear beyond any reasonable doubt[.]” N.C. ex rel. Expert Discovery, LLC, 287 N.C. App. at 90 (citing Kornegay v. City of Goldsboro, 180 N.C. 441, 445 (1920)).

18. As Defendant observes, there is no language in the amended statute establishing that the legislature intended for the amended statute to apply retroactively. (Def.’s Br. 12.) However, this fact does not mean, as Defendant argues, that the records request at issue is subject to the law that existed at the time the responsive documents were created. Instead, as Plaintiff argues, the Court of Appeals has determined in an analogous circumstance that the law that exists at the time the request is made governs that request. (Pl.’s Resp. 9–10.)

19. In N.C. Elec. Membership Corp. v. N.C. Dep’t of Econ. & Cmty Dev., the Court of Appeals held that applying an amendment to the Act to records previously unprotected was not a retroactive application of the statute because it was the timing of the records request that controlled, not when the records themselves were created. 108 N.C. App. at 719–21.

20. Defendant argues N.C. Elec. Membership Corp should be distinguished because, as the Court of Appeals observed, not applying the new exemption to documents containing trade secrets that had been submitted to the State and maintained as confidential “would [have] put entities in the illogical position of having to recover and resubmit documents filed with state agencies prior to 1989 in order to obtain the protection of the 1989 amendment.” Id. at 720. Thus, according to Defendant, the Court focused on the timing of the request—not because of any rigid rule favoring a request-date based analysis—but because ignoring the date under these circumstances would have had an illogical result. (Def.’s Br. 13–14.)

21. Defendant maintains that it is Plaintiff who seeks the illogical result here. (Def.’s Br. 14.) It observes that if the timing of the request is the controlling date, “then a member of the public who submitted a [Public Records Act] request for the [d]ocuments on October 2, 2023 would have received them, but if that requestor’s neighbor submitted a [Public Records Act] request for the very same [d]ocuments on October 4, 2023, she would receive none. That result is contrary to common sense and the plain language and purpose of the [Public Records Act].” (Def.’s Br. 14.)

22. The Court concludes that HCA’s document request—which also qualifies as a public records request—was made after the effective date of the amendment to Section 132-1.1(a) that eliminated the three-year cap on an exemption for documents that otherwise meet the statutory requirements. Accordingly, pursuant to the reasoning of the Court of Appeals in N.C. Elec. Membership Corp., no retroactive application of Section 132-1.1(a) is required. If the communications at issue otherwise satisfy the requirements of Section 132-1.1(a), they are not public records subject to public inspection, examination or copying under the Act.

23. Defendant argues that many of the documents do not satisfy the requirements of Section 132-1.1(a) because they are not communications made to the Attorney General's Office but rather are documents created by or within the Attorney General's Office. Defendant concludes, "[b]ecause the . . . exemption, by its terms, does not apply to an agency's internal communications, [it] . . . never applied to the [d]ocuments to protect them from disclosure." (Def.'s Br. 10–11.) The Attorney General responds that the documents at issue meet the requirements for exemption under Section 132-1.1(a) of the Act because they are communications from his counsel to him and therefore qualify for protection. (Pl.'s Resp. 7.)

24. The Court first recognizes that the exemption applies only to communications within the scope of the attorney-client relationship that are sent by an attorney to a government agency, not communications from a government agency to its attorney. Poole, 330 N.C. at 482; McCormick, 164 N.C. App. at 470 (same). Beyond that, there is no established law in the context of the Act on this issue. The Court therefore looks to the common law for parallels.

25. North Carolina courts apply the attorney-client privilege to communications between in-house counsel and their clients in the same way that it is applied to other attorney-client relationships. Morris v. Scenera Rsch., LLC, 2011 NCBC LEXIS 34, at *15 (N.C. Super. Ct. Aug. 26, 2011) (citing Isom v. Bank of Am., N.A., 177 N.C. App. 406, 411 (2006)). The fact that the communications at issue are internal to the organization because they come from in-house lawyers rather than from outside counsel is not determinative.¹

26. Here, the Attorney General's staff attorneys act as counsel to him. The Court concludes that their communications, albeit internal to the Office of the Attorney General, qualify for protection if they otherwise meet the requirements of the statute. The fact that the communications were created under the same roof is not determinative.

27. Defendant's next argument reprises one it made with respect to work product. It maintains that the communications at issue occurred years before this litigation began and therefore could not possibly concern any claim "against or on behalf of the [State]" or "the prosecution, defense, settlement, or litigation of any judicial action[.]" (Def.'s Br. 8–9.) According to Defendant, the communications were made in the ordinary course of the Attorney General's business, not for litigation purposes, because the Attorney General was required by Section 55A-12-02(g) to review and approve the APA and to oversee Defendant's compliance with that contract. (Def.'s Br. 9.)

28. Plaintiff responds that the communications are protected by the Act because the earlier documents speak to strategy with respect to the proposed acquisition and include discussion about the possibility of litigation, and the later documents include discussion of potential claims against Defendant following complaints the Attorney General's office received post-closing. (Pl.'s Resp. 6–7.) Therefore, to determine whether the withheld documents are protected, it is necessary to review their substance.

C. The Withheld Documents and Communications

29. The Court has conducted an in camera review of the withheld documents to determine whether they are protected from discovery either in whole or in part. Given the narrow construction afforded statutory exceptions to the public's right to access "the property of the people," the Court concludes that many of the communications and documents withheld are, in fact, discoverable. DTH Media Corp v. Folt, 374 N.C. 292, 300–01 (2020). Specific determinations with respect to each document appear in the attached exhibit.

30. As reflected in the exhibit, only a few of the withheld documents contain communications that concern a legal claim. The balance speak to the Attorney General's review and negotiations with respect to the transaction generally, to communications with the media, and to complaints received about Defendant's post-transaction operations. Importantly, they do not include discussion of possible litigation. The Court concludes, therefore, that most of the withheld communications are not protected by section 132-1.1(a).

31. For much the same reason, only a few of the withheld documents are protected by Section 132-1.9, the Act's provision for work product. As explained in the February Order, to be protected by this provision, the document must be “trial preparation material” prepared in anticipation of litigation. Documents prepared for another purpose are not protected, even if they may subsequently be used in litigation. See, e.g., Cook v. Wake Cty. Hosp. Sys., 125 N.C. App. 618, 625 (1997) (finding an investigatory report not protectable work product because the “report would have been compiled by defendant, pursuant to [hospital] policy, regardless of whether . . . litigation was ever anticipated[.]”). In this case, the Court’s review reveals that the Attorney General’s office prepared most of the withheld documents in the ordinary course of its business with no indication that litigation was anticipated.

32. WHEREFORE, the Court, in its discretion, GRANTS in part and DENIES in part the Motion and ORDERS as follows:

- a. The Court’s rulings with respect to Plaintiff’s objections are reflected in the attached exhibit. Rulings with respect to documents (or portions thereof) for which an objection or objections is SUSTAINED appear on the exhibit in bold font. Except as provided, the objections are OVERRULED.
- b. Within thirty-three (33) days of this Order, Plaintiff shall produce to Defendant those documents (or portions thereof) otherwise responsive to Defendant’s discovery requests that Plaintiff is not authorized to withhold pursuant to this Order.

SO ORDERED, this the 10th day of April, 2025.
