The North Carolina Administrative Office of the Courts' (NCAOC) Training and Development Division provides audio visual, curriculum management, instructional design, and training and field support services for the Judicial Branch. The division analyzes, develops, and delivers blended curriculum-based education and training programs, based on needs assessments, questionnaires, and use of other management tools to identify opportunities. These curricula utilize e-learning, group participation through interactive telepresence/distance learning, video courses and instructions, reading assignments, quizzes to assess learning, as well as in-person follow up.

Our staff encourages employees and their supervisors to work together to determine the best individualized learning path for success. We provide supervisors and managers with a menu of courses designed to encourage the user to develop expertise in specific disciplines at their own pace. Participants receive the training needed to effectively carry out their job responsibilities while reducing the need to be away from the office and home.

The Training and Development Division manages reporting of employee training and continuing education for magistrates, and trial court administrators. The division has responsibility for developing and training of Judicial Branch team leads, supervisors, managers, hiring authorities, judicial officials, and personnel employed in the Judicial Branch, and facilitating their participation in supervision and management programs offered through outside agencies.

The division collaborates with the North Carolina Judicial College to ensure that elected and appointed officials are trained on the law and processes by which the important work of the Judicial Branch is performed. We look forward to working to enhance training, education, and staff development opportunities throughout the Judicial Branch.

In addition, staff provides equipment and support for closed circuit video hearings, when requested.

ABOUT THE TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT DIVISION

Services	Brief Description
Audio Visual	The Audio Visual team provides technical support for WebEx and other telepresence platforms, closed circuit video testimony, and meeting and conference coordination. In addition, our audio visual specialists storyboard and produce video and media productions to enhance learning opportunities. Staff has collaborated with TSD staff this year to replace analog equipment and to upfit new spaces within the North Carolina Judicial Center (NCJC) to provide better AV connectivity, sound, and screen sharing capabilities. These upgrades enhance our ability to conduct distance meetings and trainings. In addition, we are designing a recording and production studio to strengthen our ability to meet the needs of the Judicial Branch and the general public. We can now use production tools to create and develop multimedia content to enhance the equal access to justice for all North Carolinians.
Curriculum Management	Judicial Branch employees may track their training and educational enrichment opportunities in the LearningCenter, which is an automated system through the Office of State Human Resources. Clerk of court staff, magistrates, and NCAOC employees are able to register and track training through the LearningCenter. We also are beginning to offer blended curricula via the LearningCenter. The system is capable of tracking interest in course materials, sending cancellation emails to trainees, and providing follow-up and revision information regarding course materials. The system also currently sends out a rudimentary evaluation for courses. However, in the next fiscal year, we will be enhancing the evaluations, as we seek to obtain more information which will assist us in planning future courses.
Instructional Design	The Instructional Design team focuses on the redesign of training administration by evaluating course offerings, registration trends, and listening to client needs and concerns to determine comprehensive workplace learning priorities. From this, we restructure classroom-based, instructor-led training to create user-focused, on-demand training modules and one-on-one support.
Training and Field Support	The Training and Field Support team prepares and delivers training and some continuing professional education courses. They provide organizational and functional support to judges, clerks of superior court, magistrates, district attorneys, public defenders, guardians ad litem, judicial support staff, NCAOC divisions, law enforcement, and the public. We conduct workflow studies and statewide surveys for clerk of superior court offices, provide onsite technical and procedural assistance for court staff, and serve as NCAOC liaisons at county and district level meetings. With a vast knowledge base to draw from, Field Support provides assistance with procedural and technical Help Desk calls, assists with application development and user acceptance testing as subject matter experts, and quantifies institutional knowledge, policies, and best practices through group facilitation.
