RESPONSE TO MOTION TO MODIFY CONDITIONS OF BOND

GREGORY B. DRUMWRIGHT ALAMANCE CO., C.S.C.

BY MP

NOW COMES, the Defendant, GREGORY B. DRUMWRIGHT, by and through attorney, JASON L. KEITH, responding to the State motion to modify pretrial release conditions pursuant to N.C.G.S. 15A-539. Defendant opposes the State's motion and asks the Court to deny it. In support of his opposition to the State's Motion, Defendant states:

1. By statute, a person charged with a noncapital offense is entitled to release. N.C.G.S. § 15A-533 ("A defendant charged with a noncapital offense must have conditions of pretrial release determined"). A strict statutory scheme restricts the conditions that may be imposed on defendants. The presumption is that a person will be released on a written promise to return, on an unsecured appearance bond, or placement in the custody of another person or organization. N.C.G.S. § 15A-534(b). In lieu of these three options, a judicial officer may also elect to release a person into the supervision of a pretrial release program. N.C.G.S. § 15A-535. The imposition of a secured bond or house arrest is permissible only if the judicial officer makes a finding that "such release will not reasonably assure the appearance of the defendant as required; will pose a danger of injury to any person; or is likely to result in destruction of evidence, subornation of perjury, or intimidation of potential witnesses." N.C.G.S. § 15A-534(b).

DEFENDANT DOES NOT POSE A FLIGHT RISK OR DANGER OF INJURY

2. Reverend Gregory Drumwright is an adult Black resident who was born and raised in Alamance County. Some members of his family still reside in Alamance County. Rev. Drumwright taught at Cummins High School in Alamance County. Currently, Defendant is a resident of Guilford County, North Carolina.

3. Rev. Drumwright is a Professor of Public speaking at High Point University, a community organizer and social justice activist, and Senior Minister of the Citadel Church in Greensboro. He is Lead Organizer of Justice for the Next Generation (J4tNG), a coalition of millennial advocates for racial equality in America which practices peaceful, non-violent and persistent means to address systemic issues as well as symbols of white supremacy, and racial bias in policing.

4. Rev. Drumwright has received prestigious awards such as "Top 40 under 40 most influential African- American leaders."

5. Rev. Drumwright is a recent recipient of the esteemed Old North State Award (2018), a high honor conferred by Governor Roy Cooper for more than 20 years of community work and youth advocacy.

6. Additionally, Rev. Drumwright was duly appointed to serve on the NC Courts Commission in 2018. While appointed as a member of the State courts commission, he serves as the only non-attorney, non-legislative member of that commission.

Faint, illegible text or markings at the bottom of the page.

7. Rev. Drumwright has no prior criminal record of any kind.

CONDITIONS ON PRETRIAL RELEASE MUST BE PLACED IN ACCORDANCE WITH N.C.G.S. § 15A-534

8. "The judicial official may also place restrictions on the travel, associations, conduct, or place of abode of the defendant as conditions of pretrial release." N.C.G.S. § 15A-534(a). In determining which conditions to impose, the judicial officer must consider an enumerated list of factors, including the nature and circumstances of the alleged offense, family ties, employment, and character. N.C.G.S. § 15A-534(c).

9. As shown above, Rev. Drumwright's family ties, employment and character support no modification of bond here. As shown below, the nature and circumstances of Rev. Drumwright's alleged offenses, (F) Assault on a law enforcement officer, (F) obstruction of justice, (M) resisting public officer and (M) public disturbance also support no modification of bond.

10. The State argues that Rev. Drumwright declared on or about 19 November 2020, "its either, at this point, march or riot" and, "we are at war." (Motion ¶ 14.)

11. Rev. Drumwright responds that the State has taken his statements out of context and thereby misrepresented and misconstrued them. As shown in the video recording of Rev. Drumwright's 20-minute speech at the 19 November 2020 community meeting, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit 1), the State's selected quote from that speech is misleading. Rev. Drumwright called for peaceful, non-violent actions to protest the unlawful and excessive police force that resulted in voter suppression on Oct 31, and the unlawful and excessive force on November 16-- including a boycott of business that support white supremacist symbols and neo-Confederate and other racial hatred groups and a Nov. 29 march for criminal justice reform in Graham. Paragraph 14 of the State's Motion falsely mischaracterizes Defendant's statement at the meeting, printed in its entirety by Triad City Beat (available at <https://triad-city-beat.com/marchers-return-graham-police-refuse-provide-escort/>) as shown in Ex. 1:

We're at war. We are at war for all those Hispanics and all those young Black people who have felonies slapped on their criminal records that never deserved it. And there are thousands in Alamance County alone. So, what is this march to focus on? It's a march or a riot at this point, you all. And let me keep it 100[%] because I'm in church, and I got to be honest. There are folks in here who are ready to kick ass. There are people in here who are ready to riot. There are people in here who are holding back their anger out of respect for my leadership.... And we are trying to channel that anger because we don't want to start a riot.

12. Defendant has always maintained a position of peace. Additionally, following the killing of George Floyd by Minneapolis police this past May, Defendant and J4tNG joined with Alamance County residents to organize peaceful protests of racialized policing and police brutality against Black people and communities of Alamance County, the state, and the nation. The site of those protests has consistently been the City of Graham's public square, where a monument to the Confederacy fronts the north entrance of Alamance County's Historic Courthouse.

7. Rev. Drumwright has no prior criminal record of any kind.

State Bar No. 34038

On November 30, Defendant appeared before Alamance County District Court on those charges, and his trial date was set for January 11, 2021.

21. On November 29, the March for Criminal Justice Reform announced by Defendant at the Nov. 19 community meeting proceeded peacefully beginning around 2:30pm. Marchers obeyed all traffic laws. No arrests were made. The march route included the J.B. Allen Alamance County Criminal Courthouse and the Alamance Detention Center, where Defendant stopped to speak briefly to the crowd of about 150 about the County and City's disparate rates of arrest of Black people. The march ended at the Historic Courthouse's North landing. By 4:45pm, all marchers had peacefully departed the public square.

22. On the afternoon of Nov. 30, hours after Defendant's first appearance had concluded, the State contacted Defendant's undersigned counsel to notify him that Alamance's Chief District Court Judge Brad Allen was requiring Defendant to appear the following day to modify his conditions of pre-trial release to ban him from all County property until his pending criminal charges were resolved.

23. On December 1, Defendant's counsel received an unsigned, unfiled motion from the State, requesting (1) that Defendant "be banned from any property of Alamance County except when his presence is required to attend scheduled court dates; and (2) that upon his violation of said condition, the defendant be immediately arrested and have his bond doubled."

24. The alleged grounds for State's motion are unsupported by a preponderance of the evidence, as demonstrated by Exhibit 1 and the ample video footage of the October 31 actions by Defendant, marchers, Graham police and ACSO personnel which has been published by news media across the country.

25. The State's motion is further unsupported by N.C.G.S. §§ 15A-534 and -539, which require a preponderance of evidence showing a defendant is either a threat to public safety or a flight risk in order to justify harsher conditions of pretrial release, including bond.

26. The above sequence of events indicates that not only do Defendant's actions demonstrate that he is peaceful and law abiding, they also show that, contrary to the State's allegations, he has consistently advocated for peace, justice and non-violence. The State's effort to change Defendant's bond conditions appear motivated instead by a desire to prevent Defendant from continuing to exercise his constitutional rights to free speech, assembly, and movement.

27. Notably, even if the allegations in the State's Motion were true, the First Amendment of the United States Constitution and long-established public policy of this state would prohibit a judicial officer or court banishing Defendant from "any property of Alamance County," the City of Graham, or any other geographical area.

28. "In our society liberty is the norm" for an individual pending trial. United States v. Salerno, 481 U.S. 739, 755 (1987). In North Carolina, "the purpose of bail ... is to 'secure the appearance of the principal in court as required.'" State v. Hollars, 176 N.C. App. 571, 574, 626 S.E.2d 850, 853 (2006) (quoting State v. Vikre, 86 N.C. App. 196, 199, 356 S.E.2d 802, 804, disc. review denied, 320 N.C. 637, 360 S.E.2d 103 (1987)).

29. North Carolina case law also disfavors restrictions placed on a person's travel. See, e.g., State v. Doughtie, 237 N.C. 368, 369, 74 S.E.2d 922, 923, 1953 ("In the states of the United States, a sentence banishing one convicted of crime from the state is generally held to be beyond the power of the court. It is impliedly prohibited by public policy.") (reversing imposition of probationary condition prohibiting appellant from being in the state for two years). See also, e.g., State v. Culp, 30 N.C. App. 398, 399, 226 S.E.2d 841, 842 (1976) (“In North Carolina, a court has no power to pass a sentence of banishment; and if it does so, the sentence is void.”) (observing that banishment includes orders compelling people “to quit a city, place, or country, for a specific period of time, or for life.”).

30. Given that Culp, Doughtie, Malenya, Myers, and Reeves all reversed prohibitions on travel following a criminal conviction, such a proposed condition for an individual who is still pending trial cannot possibly pass muster - at least, not without the most extraordinary of showing that such a condition is constitutionally necessary to uphold the purposes of bail. As the Ninth Circuit has held, while probationers and parolees may lose some of their constitutional rights by virtue of an adjudicated conviction, the same is not true of individuals pending trial. See Scott, 450 F.3d at 873-74. Even for probationers and parolees, courts require a narrow fit between conditions of release and the goals of those conditions.

31. The proposed condition here implicates constitutional rights, including the rights of freedom of speech and the right to travel.

Freedom of Speech

32. The First Amendment guarantees the right to free speech. In this case, the state seeks to impose additional conditions of release based on its understanding of Defendant’s speech. Reverend Drumwright did not advocate criminal conduct. Yet, even under the government’s strained and incorrect understanding of Reverend Drumwright’s message, speech advocating illegal conduct is protected under the First Amendment. Hess v. Indiana, 414 U.S.105 (1973) (citing Brandenburg v. Ohio, 395 U.S. 444 (1969)). The punishment of advocacy alongside the forbiddance, and threat of criminal punishment, of the assembly with others to advocate the described action, falls within the scope of the categories of speech protected by the First Amendment.

33. In Hess, the Court opined that before an individual’s speech could fall under the unprotected category of incitement to imminent lawless action, the speech must lead to “imminent disorder.” Id. The Supreme Court overturned Hess’s conviction and affirmed that advocacy of illegal activity in the indefinite future is protected by the First Amendment. Id.

34. The Court inferred that Hess’s speech could reasonably be construed, at most, as a plea for moderation on the part of the crowd or, at worst, advocacy of illegal activity in the indefinite future. Neither scenario excluded his speech from the protection of the First Amendment because the speech could not be characterized as fitting within one of the narrow First Amendment exceptions. Roth v. United States, 354 U.S. 476 (1957) (holding that obscenity is not protected by the First Amendment); Chaplinsky v. New Hampshire, 315 U.S. 568 (1942) (holding that fighting words are not protected by the First Amendment); Cohen v. California, 403 U.S. 15 (1971) (holding that speech violating privacy interests is not protected by the First Amendment).

35. Alternatively, the Court further reasoned that had Hess’s speech been viewed as advocacy for illegal action on the crowd’s part, it was, at most, advocacy for action at an indefinite future time. Applying the Brandenburg incitement test, the Court held that because Hess’s speech was not intended to incite imminent, further lawless action on the part of the crowd, or likely to produce such action, the state lacked sufficient grounds to punish the speech.

36. While incitement is a category that is excluded from free speech protections, the determination of speech as incitement requires the speech to likely incite imminent lawless activity. Brandenburg v. Ohio, 395 U.S. 444 (1969). As such, freedoms of speech do not permit punishment except where such advocacy is directed to inciting or producing imminent lawless action and is likely to incite or produce such action. Id.

Freedom of Travel

37. The right to travel is a recognized right under our Constitution. Including the right to interstate and intrastate travel. The “freedom to travel throughout the United States has long been recognized as a basic right under the Constitution. . . (this) includes the freedom to enter and abide in any state in the union,” and cannot be limited by a state.” Attorney Gen. of New York v. Soto-Lopez, 476 U.S. 898, 902-903, 106 S. Ct. 2317; 90 L. Ed. 2d 899 (1986).

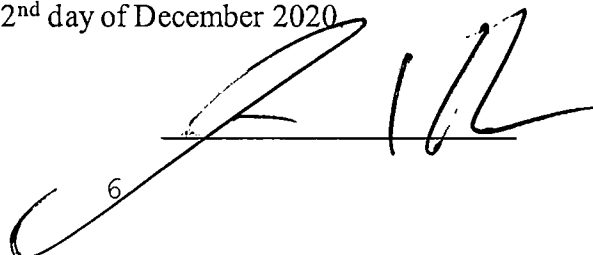

38. Arguably, prohibitions on a person’s travel within a state infringes on this guaranteed right. Shapiro v. Thompson, 394 U.S. 618, 89 S. Ct. 1322, 22 L. Ed. 2d 600 (1969) (all citizens must be free to travel throughout the United States uninhibited by statutes, rules, or regulations which unreasonably burden or restrict this movement); Dunn v. Blumstein, 405 U.S. 330, 92 S. Ct. 995, 31 L. Ed. 2d 274 (1972) (citing Shapiro, the compelling state interest test would be triggered by ‘any classification which serves to penalize the exercise of that right (to travel) . . .’ Id., at 634, 89 S.Ct., at 1331 (emphasis added); see id., at 638 n. 21, 89 S.Ct., at 1333).

39. Pursuant to Shapiro, the right to travel freely is “fundamental to the concept of our Federal Union.” Shapiro at 618. Writing for the majority, Justice Brennan noted that long ago the Court “recognized that the nature of our Federal Union and our constitutional concepts of personal liberty unite to require that all citizens be free to travel throughout the length and breadth of our land uninhibited by statutes, rules, or regulations which unreasonably burden or restrict this movement.” Id. at 630. Further, the Court “recognized that the nature of our Federal Union and our constitutional concepts of personal liberty unite to require that all citizens be free to travel throughout the length and breadth of our land uninhibited by statutes, rules, or regulations which unreasonably burden or restrict this movement.” Id. at 629.

40. Any condition or restriction prohibiting a person’s movement within a state is essentially a denial of free travel. This includes preventing a person from entering into a city or locale which makes the prohibition de facto unconstitutional. Saenz v. Roe, 526 U.S. 489, 119 S. Ct. 1518; 143 L. Ed. 2d 689 (1999) (citing United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745, 757, 16 L. Ed. 2d 239, 86 S. Ct. 1170 (1966)).

41. At the very least, the State’s proposed condition here is not narrowly tailored to ensure that it does not infringe on fundamental constitutional rights. A complete prohibition on being present in Alamance County or on County-owned property (the State’s language is vague, confusing and ambiguous) does not closely track even the state’s allegations. If prohibiting illegal activity is what the state seeks to achieve, then it may petition the court for a condition prohibiting illegal protests or illegal gatherings. But to ask for an order that banishes a person from an entire county or County-owned property is to ask for an overly broad infringement on basic constitutional rights, not to mention a violation of North Carolina’s statutory scheme governing conditions of release. As the Supreme Court noted over 30 years ago in Salerno, “liberty is the norm” for individuals pending trial. This Court should deny the state’s motion and maintain the current conditions of release, even if the government’s allegations were accurate.

Respectfully submitted, this the 2nd day of December 2020

v.

GREGORY BROOKS DRUMWRIGHT,

Defendant.

MOTION TO MODIFY CONDITIONS OF BOND

NOW COMES THE STATE, through the Office of the District Attorney, pursuant to N.C.G.S. 15A-539 and moves the Court to modify the terms of the defendant's pretrial release in the above-captioned matter. In support of said motion, the State offers the following:

1. Beginning on or about 20 October 2020, the defendant had multiple communications with officials and law enforcement of both Alamance County and the City of Graham in order to obtain a permit for a gathering on Alamance County outside the historic courthouse in downtown Graham on 31 October 2020.
2. During these conversations the defendant was notified of all provisions of the Alamance County facilities use policy and acknowledged his understanding of the same both verbally and later in writing.
3. Such provisions included that no non-battery powered generators or sound amplification devices or weapons, gasoline, or other flammable liquids would be permitted on county property during the event.
4. Had the defendant not agreed to these and all other provisions of the Alamance County Facilities Use Policy (the "Policy"), the defendant would not have been issued a permit for the above-referenced gathering.
5. As with any other citizen, the defendant was also required to abide by any laws of the State of North Carolina and any applicable local or county codes or ordinances.
6. On the morning of 31 October 2020 and during the set-up for the event, the defendant's group violated the Policy by attempting to use generators located off county property by dragging cables into and/or across street(s) in the vicinity and onto county property, as well as attempting to erect the proposed stage outside of its agreed upon location.

7. The defendant's group was warned by local law enforcement that this was in violation of the Policy and the conduct ceased.
8. During the event on 31 October 2020, the defendant's group violated the Policy by placing and concealing a gas-powered generator in a colored wagon-like carrier on county property immediately adjacent to the stage that had been erected and bringing gasoline intended to be used to power the generator onto county property. At least one, but on information and belief multiple members at the gathering also had weapons on their person.
9. Law enforcement became aware of both the gasoline and generator and approached the area in an attempt to remove these items which were in violation of the Policy.
10. As law enforcement moved peaceably to do so, members of the gathering as well as the defendant refused to follow orders to step away and allow the items to be removed before physically grabbing and shoving officers. During these events, the defendant grabbed hold of a deputy's forearm and shoved her to the ground amid an increasingly agitated crowd, resulting in physical injury.
11. When more law enforcement responded to defuse the situation and ordered the crowd at least three times to disperse, the defendant actively encouraged participants not to disperse and to remain on county property.
12. As a result of his conduct, the defendant was initially charged by Deputy Dockery of the Alamance County Sheriff's Office with resisting public officer in violation of N.C.G.S. 14-223 and inciting a riot in violation of N.C.G.S. 14-288.2.
13. After a thorough review of the evidence, including video and other additional evidence, Deputy Dockery charged the defendant with assaulting a law enforcement officer inflicting physical injury in violation of N.C.G.S. 14-34.7 and the felony obstruction of justice. These charges issued on 18 November 2020, within three weeks of the event.
14. On or about 19 November 2020, the defendant declared 'it's either, at this point, march or riot' and on or about 23 November 2020, stated 'we are at war.'
15. The state intends to submit all charges to the next grand jury.
16. As evidenced by the above the defendant is a danger to the community in that he has engaged in and threatened to further engage in rioting, a crime with which he is already charged, and that he continuously and flagrantly violated the Policy in a manner that endangered both lives and property, including county property.

Based on the foregoing, the State respectfully requests that the Court modify the conditions of the defendant's pre-trial release by adding the following conditions:

- (1) that the defendant be banned from any property of Alamance County except when his presence is required to attend scheduled court dates; and
- (2) that upon his violation of said condition, the defendant be immediately arrested and have his bond doubled.
