

Figure 1: We plot the chance that a certain number of Democrats are elected to the North Carolina Senate using the partisan vote counts from the 2008 Lieutenant Governor. Less than 1.5% of the plans in the ensemble lead to 23 elected Democrats or fewer; in contrast the enacted plan would elect 23 Democrats out of 50 available seats.